

尚府

LUXEHOMES

ISSUE NO. 66

JUL 26-AUG 8, 2013

LUXEHOMES.COM.HK

ALTERNATE FRIDAYS

隔週五派發

FREE

South China Morning Post

PARADISE FOR SALE

馬爾代夫 度假屋

SOARING COST OF CONSTRUCTION

建家何價

SPECIAL REPORT LUXE INTERIOR

專題報導：尚府雅居

A brilliant blend

中西新融合

Modern design fuses traditional Chinese elements with British influence, writes Eunice Chu

香港的現代古典家居設計，處處滲透着英式風格及中國元素。 Eunice Chu

INTERIOR DESIGN BY SUCCESS & ASSOCIATE ENGINEERING. BLENDING CHINESE FEATURES WITH CONTINENTAL DESIGNS IS GAINING POPULARITY.
成功行工程有限公司的室內設計，融合了中國特色和歐陸設計，現已越來越受歡迎。

Many of Hong Kong's luxury homes have interiors that have fused together the best of the East and West.

One favourite interior design is modern classic, which originated in Britain. "In the past, most luxury homes were designed by British designers, or local designers who were trained there. The style of Hong Kong's interior design has always been a combination of European and Asian," says Jacky Wu, design director of Success and Associate Engineering.

"For example, you will notice the mixing of modern and classic styles in a lot of homes, local restaurants and cafes. The upper half of the walls is modern, but

JACKY WU
成功行工程有限公司總監 Jacky Wu

the lower half is very English – it could be a hybrid between continental Europe and Chinese art deco."

Wu says modern classic styles are gaining popularity because it is easy on the eye and highly adaptive to new elements.

"In Hong Kong, designers tend to add to the style with the traditional Chinese designs and emphasize symmetry. Traditionally, the continental European style does not call for symmetry. You can have a door on the left without another on the right, but we always try to strike a balance and find harmony and beauty in it."

Wu says you can easily mix and match